

Presentation skills

PRESENTATIONS ARE OFTEN USED AS A FORMAL METHOD TO PLAN AND PROGRESS ANY BUSINESS IDEA. THEIR MAIN PURPOSE IS TO COMMUNICATE A MESSAGE TO AN AUDIENCE.

The main purpose of a presentation is to communicate a message to an audience. Presentations are often used as a formal method to plan and progress any business idea. They can be fun as they give people a chance to hold the stage and speak their mind. Organisations can use presentations to raise issues and find solutions to problems. Effective presentations are clear, concise and leave an impression on the audience.

How good are you at presenting?

Ask yourself the following:

1. I know the outcome I want to achieve from my presentation.
2. I plan and rehearse before presenting.
3. I know what to say and when to say it.
4. I understand the audience and their link to the topic.
5. I am aware of the audience's expectations.
6. I know that the presentation content will be understood by everyone in the audience.
7. I always start the presentation by defining the purpose and the importance of the topic.
8. I involve the audience by asking questions and gaining their feedback.
9. I am able to sustain the interest of the audience throughout the presentation.
10. I use visual aids to make the message more clear to the audience.
11. I use one font throughout the presentation and use one concept per slide/overhead.
12. I talk without the use of a script.
13. I make eye contact with the audience.
14. I keep my tone natural and my voice loud enough for everyone to hear.
15. I finish the presentation by summarising the main points and recommending a future course of action.
16. I am prepared for questions and that the audience may have.

YOUR SCORE

People who are good at presenting generally score "YES" to 13 of these questions.

If you scored less, you should think about learning how to improve your presentation skills.

Your Presentation Skills program is custom designed to provide strategies to teach participants how to plan, structure, and deliver powerful presentations. Not only will participants learn how to engage their audience, they will also learn how to structure their presentations in order to deliver effective messages.

Key learning outcomes

Your Presentation Skills program will give participants the skills to:

- Overcome nervousness, tension and speaking anxiety prior to any presentation.
- Plan for each presentation by researching your audience.
- Structure powerful presentations that deliver effective messages.
- Develop rapport with those that you are presenting to.
- Communicate effectively with each participant – key listening and questioning skills.
- Prepare slides, handouts and notes that catch the attention of the listeners.
- Present with confidence by getting over the ‘nervous feeling’.
- Engage an audience by getting them interested in your message.
- Understand the motivations and values of the audience.
- Answer difficult questions in a calm and collected manner.
- Deal with difficult questions during and after the presentation.
- Motivate the audience and build a desire to move forward.
- Invent win/win objectives even if it sounds impossible.
