

Crisis Management

There are times when unexpected situations disrupt organisational functionality.

This program is designed to give you and your people the skills to deal with a crisis that may occur at any time. Some organisations excel in periods of crisis because their people know what to do. Other organisations implode every time a crisis occurs.

How good are your crisis management skills?

Ask yourself the following questions:

1. Our people can fix unexpected organisational problems?
2. Our people make fast and correct decisions during a crisis?
3. Our people can read the signals of a potential crisis?
4. Our people can map out a problem which might be intertwined with the organisational processes?
5. Our people have a proven platform to work from during a crisis?
6. We have a culture that acknowledges intuition and interpretation?
7. Our people know the importance of risk management?
8. Our people periodically review the operational processes?
9. Our people set contingency plans?
10. Our people are aware of the different types of crisis that occur in organisations?
11. Our people know what to say and what not to say?
12. Our people think on their feet?
13. Our people have allocated resources for managing crisis?
14. Our people are aware of service recovery methodologies?
15. Our people know how to effectively manage anxiety, body language and stress levels during a crisis?

YOUR SCORE

People with good crisis management skills generally score "YES" to 12 of these questions.

If you scored less, you should think about learning how to improve your crisis management skills.
